- Meeting the specifications: Describe how your site meets the assignment specifications, particularly what interactive functionality (i.e. jQuery-UI, plugins, source of Ajax requests) you have implemented. Also, list the accessibility principles and guidelines you implemented on your website. This can be a series of bullet points, or one paragraph.
  - Every html page of my site has both a header and a footer
  - Home page has a layout consisting of a header, main, footer, all with ID's and classes. The index does serve the purpose of giving some information and the main background is a slideshow of images. The nav bar is set up to be the main objective on the page.
  - The navigation bar is present on every page and is within the header of every page, also it is consistent except that the page you are currently on grows in size, a style choice.
  - The other 4 pages all exist and serve their purpose.
- Accessibility
  - My images have alt classes that explain what it is meant to be in a text format, which fulfills the Non-Text-Content.
  - Meaningful Sequence is fulfilled as all of my text is meant to be read from left to right, and information is presented from top to bottom.
  - Sensory Characteristics are fulfilled as there are clear text instructions where necessary, specifically on the contact me and donations page.
  - Use of Color and Contrast have been considered when making the design of the website in order to create a pleasing visual experience for any viewers.
  - All of my pages are titled and are clearly marked as their purpose, fulfills Page Titled
- Summarize the feedback you received in your critiques and how you updated your website in response. This can be a set of bullet points or a paragraph or two. If you did not update your website, include your justifications.
  - The biggest critique I got was how I was missing a footer and header, and I needed to work on the formatting of my pages, such as placement, font, sizing, etc. I worked on making everything look good/better. The biggest issues I had was to work on the formatting of my pages, meaning where everything laid on the page, as this was quite finicky.
- A paragraph on how well you think your website will meet the needs of your stakeholders/clients, and your future plans with the website.

- I think the website certainly fulfills the need of an artist's page, it displays the art first and foremost but also provides the needed ways to look for more information and make purchases, as well as support the artist. I think the site could be expanded in the future as the artist grows their brand and portfolio, at the very least more ways to display their artwork will be needed.
